

In 1971, George McGovern won the Democratic nomination for president on a ticket of “Amnesty, Acid, and Abortion”. Amnesty for people who refused to participate in the evil and unnecessary war in Vietnam, legalized drugs, and abortion is self-evident. He was the furthest left Democrat to have ever achieved such a feat. At the convention, he believed he had to work with the DNC in order to actually win the election, and decided to allow them to select his running mate. In retaliation for McGovern winning, they saddled him with Thomas Eagleton, and then leaked documents to the Republicans that Eagleton was hospitalized for suicidal ideation, amongst other things. Eagleton was eventually replaced, but the damage was done. McGovern lost in the most embarrassing landslide in US history. The reason they sabotaged McGovern was so they could trade 4 years of Nixon for 8 years or possibly more of a less “extreme” candidate. Nixon was elected, chased out of office, and Carter was elected. Everything looked good for the DNC's plans. Then Carter was defeated by Reagan, a movie star, after a single term. I don't need to remind you of the horrors Reagan wrought upon the world, let alone the US.

Sound familiar? It should, if you remember the 2020 primaries. The only lesson the DNC learned those 50 years ago was to sabotage “extremists” before they won the nomination. Bernie Sanders was in position to lead the pack, and Nancy Pelosi, Bill Clinton, Chuck Schumer, and others were worried that his “extremist” views would cause them to lose the election. So, using superdelegates loyal to the party line, they knee-capped his candidacy in favor of Joe Biden, who they felt was in a better position to win. It worked, Joe Biden clinched the nomination and went on to win the presidential election, altho it should be noted the House of Representatives fell to the Republicans and the Senate became deadlocked at a 50/50 split. A pyrrhic victory, at best. I'd like to take this moment to remind you that Kamala Harris was not even in the top ten of contenders in the 2020 primaries before she dropped out. Gabbard beat her, and we all know about Gabbard, who is (now officially) a Republican.

It soon became clear that Biden was not fit for the presidency. His cognitive functions began declining. He was unable to pass much of his legislation. Trump, meanwhile, gathered strength and continued stumping all through the Biden presidency. The Democrats knew they had to replace Biden, but refused to do so, citing polls and Lyndon Johnson's pulling out of the race causing Nixon to win the election. This is not the start of their malpractice against the American people, and the world really, but it is one of the most damning ones. They knew that an open primary could cause another leftist dark horse to rise up and gain popularity, and ruin the hard work they've done to get to this point.

It eventually became so completely evident to the American people that Biden was no longer fit to hold office that he was humiliated and forced out of the running. With no time to hold a primary, as planned, the Democrats offered up Kamala Harris, Biden's VP. Things looked good at first. She ran a message of how Republicans are “weird” and Democrats got stars in their eyes of making history again by having a female president. Lemme break the time flow for a second. Harris, a woman, lost in an age of abortion and bodily rights restrictions caused by her opponent and his cronies.

That is how incompetently her campaign and message was run. Back to the story, we all know how the campaign went. She ditched that messaging, ditched universal health care, supported Trump's border wall, courted Republicans including the vile mass-murder and architect of the torture violations in Guantanamo Bay, Dick Cheney, and vowed to uphold Biden's policy of arming Israel in their ongoing genocide in the Middle East. Israel, who has openly been hoping for a Trump presidency. And once again, they saddled Harris with a terrible VP pick, a guy who habitually lied about his service records in an attempt to sound Patriotic in an era of free and easy access to information about any politician by any American with internet access. A vote for Harris was always a vote for the third term of George W. Bush. The result was another humiliating loss, one that will cost non-whites, queer people, and women in a way that can only be measured in blood. And that's just this country. That's not counting the thousands more across the globe.

The Democrats once again handed the Republicans a victory, in the hopes that after Trump's 4 more years in office, they can bring back their neoliberal, centrist, and even neoconservative values in 2028 to win 8 years or more of Democratic mediocrity. In short, and the point of this essay, is that this was all intentional. Harris was always meant to lose. The DNC ensured it. When Harris was gaining traction with her "Republicans are weird" message, when leftists tried giving advice, a 71-year old white man (Geoff Garin) ensured that messaging was destroyed in favor of courting Republicans. This is all by design. We're literally reliving a more extreme version of 50 year old history. Already people are speculating that if Trump eliminates term limits, they can run Barack Obama again and win another couple elections. They have learnt nothing, and will continue to sabotage elections to push their lukewarm messaging and policies.

This is why I say the Democrats need to be sold for scrap. The whole party should go the way of the Whigs and disappear forever, never to darken our doorways again. They will never accept that Americans do not want war, that they do want universal healthcare like the rest of the world, that they want abortion access for all, nor can they accept that transgender people and immigrants deserve equal rights. They will always be in favor of propping up the class system. It's in their messaging, "expanding the middle class". Their idea of the middle class is one that owns property, behaves, and is presentable in public. Their class system is a continuation of segregation, of the poor, the colored, and the queer. You're only allowed to escape if you embrace white cis het values in their world.

We don't need the Democrats. They need us. Look at the blame game currently (November 2024) going on. News sites publishing studies of Latino and Black voters going for Trump. Nothing anywhere about how the overwhelming majority of Trump voters are white. This is the vision the Democrats have for America, and the world beyond. It is one of oppression, of status quo, of unchanging non-vibes forever. If you want a vision of the DNC's idea of the future, imagine a boot grinding down the pulp the Republicans have left behind, forever. For my entire adult life, they have done nothing but present a "lesser of two evils" for their vision of the future. I wholly reject this notion, and believe the people of the world deserve better. I will never listen to another Democrat. I will never vote Democrat in any capacity, even down-ballot. And neither should any of you.
